

International Sales Intern (based in Dublin)

Salesforce.com is the enterprise cloud computing company. Our portfolio of Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) applications, including our award-winning customer relationship management (CRM), has revolutionised the ways that customers manage and share business information over the Internet. Salesforce.com has evolved from a startup founded by four people in a cramped San Francisco apartment ten years ago to a company described by Barron's as "the fastest growing business software company in the world". With more than 3,500 employees, over $1B in annual revenues, and over 1.5 million users worldwide, we are proud to contribute to the success of companies of all sizes, in all industries, around the globe. According to Gartner, 25% of all software will be deployed via the cloud computing model by 2011. No matter how you slice it, the future of software is cloud computing. Consider joining the cloud computing leader, Salesforce.com, and be part of the team that is creating this future.

Description:

Salesforce.com is now offering top calibre students exciting opportunities to work within their sales representative groups as interns for up to 6 months. This is a chance to gain international professional experience and to develop real world skills. The intern shares some of the same job responsibilities as full-time employees and can make valuable contributions to the company. Significant time will be spent working within the salesforce.com application and with sales employees to learn how to strategically develop and qualify revenue opportunities. They will be responsible for researching prospective clients, contacts, and using the provided resources and technology to assist the Sales Development Team.

For students writing their bachelor's or master's thesis, you will get the opportunity to propose a research subject and get active support from salesforce.com. Before you, talented and driven students have used this internship to successfully complete their study and kick-start a promising career with salesforce.com in Dublin.

Required Skills:

- Currently enrolled in a full-time, academic program at an accredited college or university pursuing a relevant degree or recently graduated
- Native French, German or Dutch speaker
- Interest in a customer facing or sales role
- Team player with excellent oral and written communication
- Exemplary problem solving skills
- Exceptional organisational and planning skills
- Interested in being a part of a fast-paced sales environment

Compensation:

- 12€/hour for Active Work Experience hours (creating contacts, researching accounts, etc; excluding time spend on thesis), no of hours per week pre-agreed
- 100€ weekly bonus if 100% of target is achieved

Thesis:

- Up to 50% of time can be spent unpaid in the office working on a thesis (To be agreed in advance)
- Includes access to managers and executives

-

This is a wonderful opportunity to gain experience within the Cloud Computing Leader

Please send you CV in English to

Franziska Ludwig
fludwig@salesforce.com